Non-Ficial Legislation.

When our Republican censors have had their say, the California Democrats may take a just pride in the fact that their fellow partisans have substantially redeemed the pledges made to the people in the platform of the party. Thus the most conspicuous plank in the San Jose platform in 1882 was a pledge to repeal the Sunday law. Promptly upon the assembling of the Legislature this obsolete statute was repealed. The Democratic members of the last Legislature, notwithstanding all that has been said against that body, was also characterized by a marked fidelity to the pledges of the San Francisco Convention. That convention promised the people relief on the question of irrigation, and the Legislature at once proceeded to repeal the statute which made the common law of England the rule governing the courts of this State in matters concerning the right to the use of water. It went farther; and, by the passage of the Injunction bill, which has received the Governor's signature, it has granted to the farmers of the San Joaquin valley, and other irrigated regions, a remedy by which they can secure their crops pending a controversy with grant owners and others who aim to deprive them of water.
It is quite true that Republicans participated in both of these last measures, but the Democratic members and Democratic Governor had the shaping of legislation, and gave the inexorable relief which had been promised in the party platform. It is a noteworthy fact that the Legislatures which were elected to co-operate with Governors Stoneman and Bartlett evolved no infamous jobs, like the Slickens swindle, where it was sought to take millions of the people's money to do what the hydraulic miners should have been compelled to do themselves, which measure was the shining light of Governor Perkins's phosphorescent administration.

The Interstate Commerce Bill and Our Wines.

The operation of the Interstate Commerce bill threatens to be very injurious to some of the interests of Southern California. This is particularly the case with our wines. Leading wine men assure us that the enhanced freight on shipments to the East by rail will be almost equal to the import duty on foreign wines.
This will of course result in increasing the movement of this class of goods by water, and a return to the old shipments around the "Horn" is by no means an improbability. It is doubtless in the power of the Commissioners, by a liberal administration of the law, to do much to remedy these grievances, which seem to be inevitable incidents of all reforms. It was scarcely expected that a great and radical change like this could be made without a considerable shock to the existing order of things. The Commission is composed of gentlemen of marked ability, but it is greatly to be regretted that, in view of the overwhelming interest in the changes contemplated by the new system possessed by the people of California, no one was appointed from this State.
The fact that most of the transcon-tinentals line center here should have of itself assured this recognition. One effect of the bill may be to build up the Dominion Railway system, as the Canadian Pacific and the British roads will be absolutely independent of the Interstate Commerce bill.
Shipments could thus be made over the continent by rail and to and from the termini of the Canadian system by water. Should the Directors of this British corporation adopt a low schedule of freight on wines and brandies, they would probably secure a large share of the business.

The testimony given on Saturday in the Lynch-Vandever contest by R.
A. Ling, Esq., and by Hon. S. M.
White, which was published in the Herald yesterday, is among the most important and convincing of any in this cause celebre. An unwilling witness all through, Mr. Ling could not, under oath, escape from the exigency of the occasion, but had to "out with" the fact that the "dummies" were systematically put in line to retard voting in the famous "White House" precinct. The object was to hasten the Democratic majority before the election, and Ling had at least one other Democrat lent their "aid and comfort to the enemy" in order to accomplish this. The price paid for "dummies" was fifty cents a trip, and Ling saw the manipulators of these gentry get the coin, and saw the coin paid the "dummy" to get in line. That this was done has been an open secret all the time since election day, but it was a difficult task to find the man who could be made to swear to the facts. Mr.

Ling was the missing link to make the testimony of many other witnesses emphatic. Mr.
White's testimony as to the registration question in all its manifold phases is quite as important and emphatic. No one can read it and longer escape the conviction that the County Clerk was of the Republican clique, who conspired to steal a march on the other party in the matter of registration. Mr. Dunsmore's animus is made conspicuous. An able lawyer, as Mr. White is, interpreted the law to him, to the effect that his duties in the premises were purely ministerial, that he had no right to go behind the prima facie evidence of registration furnished him by the Deputy Assessors. But in spite of this most correct interpretation of the statute Mr. Dunsmore's partisan zeal led him to act in a purely judicial capacity when he rejected the 194 voters turned in by the Assessors. This, with the appointment of the chairman of the Republican County Convention as a deputy clerk to enroll voters, with the notices given as to the close of the Great Register and all the many points in this connection, shows that the County Clerk was clearly of the opinion that his office was held by him too much as a political, and too little as a public trust. The zeal about the registration has been sadly lacking when it was required to look after the filing of the certificate of election, and other documents, in the case of his friend and political associate, the late, and much lamented County Tax-Collector, whose bondsmen now so anxiously scan the horizon to see how they must pay the deficit of that defaulting official. The zeal was too much in favor of his own political household. No one can read White's testimony and doubt this.

This question of the policy of bail bonds has been brought before the people of San Francisco by the judgment holding Gray's bondsmen responsible in the large sum of $100,- 000, and the disappearance of El Hammond with the moderate sized sack raises it somewhat prominently here. The practice of exacting bonds from officials is as old as the hills; but, like some other venerable usages, it is just possible that it might be "more honored in the breach than in the observance." We exact no bonds from our Presidents and Governors, and yet a very fair order of service has been secured of bonds would unquestionably result in a higher order of character in the nominees for positions of pecuniary trust, and a man who is selected for such posts on account of his conspicuous reputation for integrity in the community is not very apt to abuse the confidence placed in him. The large bonds exacted from many officials, unquestionably result in a great abuse. Their bondsmen are apt to either dictate the selection of the employees or to exact a percentage of the emoluments of the offices. It is very rare indeed in the history of California where one can find an instance of an official bond for a large amount that has been paid to the authorities.

One of the exigent demands of the day is the distribution of the exceptionally large surplus which is kept locked up in the treasury vaults. While the policy of keeping a considerable reserve therein to meet contingencies is a wise one, there can be no apology for making this sum inordinately large. It is so much money withdrawn from circulation, and to that extent it necessarily cramps the natural business expansion of the country. But for the large balance of trade in our favor in our dealings with the outside world we should be suffering severely from this peculiar policy. With a greatly increasing population the need is for more money per capita and for a more generous measure of the values of the products of the country. Notwithstanding this self-evident proposition a large number of the National banks are withdrawing their circulation, and the Treasury surplus is allowed to steadily increase. Mr.
Cleveland's administration has done something to help the country by the issue of silver certificates of small denominations. The Fifth Congress will be obliged to apply itself in earnest to the judicious disposition of the Treasury surplus and to tariff revision, revenue reduction and the other great needs of the country.

Great efforts are being made in certain journals to create the impression that there is a pronounced rivalry between President Cleveland and Governor Hill, of New York. This is the merest leather and prunella.
The New York Executive has been careful at every stage of his official career to show the deference which he does not feel toward his personal friend and fellow-Democrat, who has been placed at the head of the party and nation. There is little doubt, as things stand, that Mr. Cleveland's popularity is greater now than it was when he was elected. Quite naturally there are many Democrats who do not like the Civil Service experiment, but they remember that the President found a plank in the Chicago platform which bound him to take this new and distasteful departure. The general current of opinion throughout Democratic circles in the country at large is favorable to President Cleveland, and the State of New York is no exception to this rule. Governor Hill will probably display toward the President next year the strong personal and political friendship which has signalized their relations in the past.

Our Pasadena exchanges complain that full justice has not been done in the Illustrated Herald to the advances which have been made in that go-ahead and progressive city.
This is purely the result of an accident which we did not discover until the first edition of the periodical had been worked off. We had prepared an article bringing down the marvelous history of Pasadena to date; but, by some unaccountable mischance, it was overlooked by the foreman in the make-up. We reproduced the article which appeared in last year's Illustrated about Pasadena because it contained the interesting early history of that place. The work is electrotyped, there will be frequent editions of it, and we promise to rectify the omission in all later issues.

Farming.

Tulare county is a land of richness. It lies near the upper end of the great San Joaquin Valley, and in its 4,000,000 acres is an empire of wealth. It is bounded on the north and west by Fresno county, east by Inyo and south by Kern. Its population in 1880 was 11,281, and in 1887 estimated at 21,000. The assessed valuation of property was then $5,204,777. It is now over $11,000,000. Its most remarkable success is owing to the subdivision of the land into small farms, mainly of 20 and 40 acres each, and the boring of artesian wells and the construction of large irrigating canals. The immigration into this paradise for farmers is very great, and the population and wealth of the county doubles at least in five years.

Only a few years ago before the great Southern Pacific Company sent its flying trains through this wondrous valley, the people lived frugally as in a new Eden.

Where the richest was poor,
And the poorest lived in abundance.
But the picture has changed by railway communications, and now the owners of land are swiftly advancing to the rank of millionaires. In the foothills oranges thrive well, and Tulare oranges took the first prize at the citrus fair at San Diego last year.

No country on the face of earth can produce a greater variety of profitable crops than the Tulare valley, including the foothills and small valleys. Wheat, barley, oats, rye, Indian and Egyptian corn, sorghum, millet, broomcorn, cotton, flax, alfalfa, clover and other tame grasses are here to be found growing with as great luxuriance as could be wished for. Vegetables, such as onions, lettuce, turnips, parsnips, carrots, beets and tomatoes can be grown so as to have them fresh every month in the year, while green corn, peas, string beans, cabbage, melons, cucumbers, etc., are in the market from one to two months later than in the Eastern States. Irish and sweet potatoes are not strangers to the table at any season of the year, and of fruits not a kind of deciduous can be named that will not flourish there, and grapes grow to marvelous size and possess great sweetness. Some of the statements are deemed fabulous by those who never saw Tulare grapes on the vine. From a soil 100 feet deep the vine makes an astonishing growth. A single specimen raised by R. F. Moore is a surprising illustration of the productivity of the soil of Tulare. Mr. Moore gathered from a four-year old vine of Muscat grapes 300 pounds of fruit. On one branch of this vine, only 12 inches in length, was a single cluster that weighed 21 pounds, and on another branch 17 inches long was another cluster that weighed 19 pounds.

These specimen growths are well authenticated by various parties. The famous grapes of Eschsch are nothing in comparison to those of Tulare, and the valley of the Nile, so celebrated for its fertility, is not for a moment to be compared to that of Tulare county. Twenty acres of land in the irrigated portion of Tulare county will yield more grain, make more beef, butter, cheese and pork than any 100 acres of farming land in Iowa or Kansas. Tulare Lake, in the western part of the county, receives the surplus waters not used for irrigation. Water in abundance comes out of the mountains on the east, and flows through this opulent land, bringing fertilizing material through all the year into this valley of happiness. Among the streams are the Kern, Kaweah, Tulare, White and Kings rivers, Deer, Elk, Otis, Cameron and Cross creeks. In addition to these copious streams there are 200 flowing artesian wells, that supply a vast amount of water for irrigation and domestic use. The soil is generally sandy loam, with here and there streaks of clayey soil and some adobe. The whole of it produces grain in abundance that taxes the capacity of the warehouses of Tulare City and the Tulare Mills to the utmost. These have a capacity of 750,000 bushels, and do an enormous business.

BANNER WHEAT COUNTY.

Following is the latest and probably the most accurate statement of the wheat yield of the State, by which it will be seen that Tulare leads all the counties in the State in the production of wheat:

	Bushels.
Alameda	900,000
Amador	250,000
Butte	1,851,000
Calaveras	245,000
Colusa	4,150,000
Contra Costa	1,490,000
Fresno	3,815,000
Kern	2,950,000
Los Angeles	2,615,000
Mariposa	245,000
Mendocino	190,000
Merced	1,658,000
Monterey	1,250,000
Napa	1,200,000
San Benito	710,000
Sacramento	855,000
San Bernardino	65,000
San Diego	350,000
San Joaquin	2,250,000
San Luis Obispo	1,110,000
San Mateo	160,000
Santa Barbara	1,790,000
Santa Clara	1,790,000
Santa Cruz	375,000
Shasta	1,000,000
Solano	646,000
Sonoma	560,000
Stanislaus	315,000
Sutter	991,000
Tehama	1,150,000
Tulare	4,980,000
Tuolumne	112,000
Ventura	310,000
Yuba	330,000
Total	45,021,200

Barley, rye, oats and corn make enormous yields. Tulare flour has a grand reputation all over the southwest portion of the Union. Land in cheap crops are large and sure, small farms can be had on reasonable terms, so that 300,000 persons can get a good living inside of Tulare county.

TULARE TIMBER.
Although that portion of Tulare county along the line of the railway is comparatively treeless the eastern portion has a vast amount of the finest timber in the world. Between the city and the Sierra Nevada is a vast belt of oak trees, very large and very beautiful. The land on which they stand is open to pasturage, while the trees afford shade and millions of dollars worth of the best of fuel. This timber belt is about ten miles wide and twenty-five miles long. It is a thing of beauty and will be a joy forever to those who make their homes beneath its umbrageous branches. But if the oaks, beech, a kind of domestic park in the mountains above the park of oak! All along the dashing streams of the romantic cañons of the Sierra Nevada grow in profusion, the pine, cedar, oak, alder, aspen, spruce. On ascending to the lofty heights beyond, where thunder sleeps and lightning celebrates their birthday one of the most magnificent forests of the world stands in primeval grandeur. Here stand the straight, symmetrical sugar pine, the largest tree in America, the invaluable fir tree, and the grandest of all the trees of earth, the sequoia gigantea, 300 feet high and thirty feet in diameter. It will be remembered by the readers of the HERALD that in the great sequoia of Tulare was cut the great tree in sections that was taken to the Centennial fair in Philadelphia in 1876, and astonished the world by its magnitude. It required a large force of men thirty days to throw down the grand old tree which was born before Moses and Joshua, and paid no honors to Methuselah for his seniority. It is estimated that the timber of Tulare is worth ten billions of dollars. In the deep shades of these mountain forests the grizzly and cinnamon bear find a home, while the mountain lion, the cougar, lynx and deer claim it as a place of pleasant abode. The streams and the lake of Tulare are stocked with large and luscious fish.

The county of Tulare is so exceedingly rich in agricultural products that but little has been done in mining in the mountains, although there are valuable mines of gold and silver in this part of the State. The field and the forest have been so rewarding that the settlers have preferred to get a living from these sources rather than undertake the more robust business of mining.

FREIGHT SHIPMENTS.
By the politeness and favor of Mr. H. H. Francisco, the accomplished agent of the Southern Pacific at Tulare City, the shipments and receipts at that point by rail are given as follows for 1886:

January—Forwarded, 3,559,300 pounds; received, 1,933,980 pounds.
February—Forwarded, 2,386,000 pounds; received, 3,565,650 pounds.
March—Forwarded, 2,249,590 pounds; received, 2,520,940 pounds.
April—Forwarded, 2,691,930 pounds; received, 6,094,830 pounds.
May—Forwarded, 1,938,750 pounds; received, 9,092,930 pounds.
June—Forwarded, 6,343,900 pounds; received, 7,183,880 pounds.
July—Forwarded, 11,025,650 pounds; received, 10,516,650 pounds.

August—Forwarded, 12,135,720 pounds; received, 9,372,800 pounds.
September—Forwarded, 11,735,010 pounds; received, 6,611,350 pounds.
October—Forwarded, 5,131,940 pounds; received, 7,872,650 pounds.
November—Forwarded, 4,334,770 pounds; received, 6,768,190 pounds.
December—Forwarded, 5,843,380 pounds; received, 5,608,340.

Total tonnage—146,878,240 pounds. This most astonishing business for a country town thirteen years old tells more than volumes of the richness and business of the county. A description of Tulare City and other towns will appear in a future article.

Extra Liability to Malarial Infection.

Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak and liver sluggish, are extra liable to the attacks of malarial disease. The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions, infect a system which, if healthy, would resist the malarial taint. The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent is to tone and regulate the system by improving the weak digestion, enriching the blood and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion. These results are accomplished by such a medicine as Hostetter's Stomach Bitter, which long experience has proved to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders. Well known results for them. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an independent eliminant of the blood those acids impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

They Never Fail.
California's scenery cannot be surpassed in the beautiful evergreen valleys and her continuous snow-capped mountains. Abietine is produced on one of the most fertile tracts of land between the two. It has been demonstrated beyond the possibility of doubt that Abietine has great medicinal properties, both as an external and internal remedy, and we also claim we have in ABIE'S CAT-R-CURE, a powerful and reliable remedy for the treatment of all malarial diseases. See circular. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an independent eliminant of the blood those acids impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

Startling but True.
After suffering for more than three years with disease of the throat and lungs, I got so low last spring I was entirely unable to do anything, and my cough was so bad I could scarcely sleep at night. My Druggist, Mr. H. F. Goodnight, sent me a trial bottle of Dr. BARKER'S COUGH AND LUNG SYRUP. I found relief, and after using six bottles, I was entirely cured. J. M. HEINZMAN. Sample bottle 5 cents at C. F. Heinemann's.

Hiding a watery skin.

Her complexion formerly was yellow, now her brilliantly tinted skin shows the signs of admiring of her beauty. She used Free man's medicated face powder.

DR. FLINT'S HEART REMEDY

Take it in Time. A man who presents an appearance of health and vigor, but whose countenance is anxious, and who is subject to spells of faintness, is liable to sudden death. Dr. Flint's Heart Remedy is the only remedy for the heart. It is a powerful and reliable remedy for the treatment of all malarial diseases. See circular. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an independent eliminant of the blood those acids impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

Blessing of Sleep. Runway for the man or woman who finds himself or herself unable to sleep nights is an invaluable medicine, which will not only prevent the loss of sleep, but will prevent a general breaking down of the system.

HAMBURG FIGS.

There is no remedy which cures the cure of habitual constipation, indigestion and sick headache, as these are the result of the same cause as their taste is pleasant. 25 cents. At all druggists, or address J. J. MACK & CO., 9 and 11 Front St., San Francisco.

News Notes.

Twelve car loads of people went to Santa Monica yesterday.
Yesterday afternoon a truck heavily laden with cast-iron pipe lost a wheel on First street, and blocked the passage on one side of the car-track.
Samuel P. Putnam, the Liberal orator, delivered an eloquent lecture at Turner Hall last night. Lack of space prevented a full report of his effort.
There were no new cases of smallpox yesterday, but the little girl, Joaquin Foster, who was taken out of the Orphan Asylum a few days ago, died at the Smallpox Hospital. She was 9 years old.

Shen's new brick block on the corner of Third and Arizona streets in Santa Monica, is about completed. The upper story will be for theatricals, etc. The hall will be formally opened by an opera troupe on May 1st, under the management of B. D. Jackson.

Mr. H. E. Smith, Jr., general agent at San Francisco, of the Missouri Pacific, is in the city. Aside from Mr. Smith's high attainments as a railroad man, he is one of the best amateur athletes on the coast. At Santa Monica yesterday he gave the train a considerable start of him and caught it within 400 yards.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a black horse attached to a sulky became balky in front of Ned McGinnis' saloon and reared upon his hind feet and shaking his head vigorously at the same time. When he concluded to settle down on his fore feet, his head came in contact with a passing street car, and the horse received such a crack in the head that for a moment or so he was stunned. A man riding on the car narrowly escaped being hit by the horse's head.

The practice of locking the Opera House doors during church services on Sunday is, to say the least, dangerous and contrary to the fire ordinance. If a panic should occur with the multitude inside, the loss of life would probably be great before the doors could be unlocked. Yesterday morning a lady fainting and had to be taken out during the service. Little things like that are liable to create a panic and under no circumstances should an audience be locked in a hall or theater.

Personal Mention.

W. A. Gooding, of San Francisco, is at the Pico House.
J. M. L. Peck, of New York, is stopping at the Elmo.
J. R. Craig, of the Morning News, New Haven, Conn., is at the Elmo.
Mrs. J. W. Green, wife of our Postmaster, started for San Francisco yesterday.
Mr. N. L. Gage, of Atchison, Kan., is in the city. Mr. Gage is a prominent official of the Santa Fe, and is a brother of Mr. Stephen Gage, of the Southern Pacific.

J. A. Fillmore, General Superintendent of W. G. Curtis, Superintendent of Track, and H. A. Clawson, Superintendent of Eating Houses, of the Southern Pacific system, were in the city yesterday and left for Santa Paula, over the Newhall branch.

Mrs. Chas. Monroe, of Lawrence, Kan., wife of Chas. Monroe, Esq., Attorney for the Union Pacific Railroad Company, in company with her sister, Miss Emma Hadley, who is book-keeper in the National Bank of Lawrence, are in the city visiting their cousin, Mr. Harvey Lindley.

Father Peter's Accident.

Le Progress yesterday contained an account of an accident which happened to Rev. P. Verdager a few nights since. Father Peter on Tuesday evening went to the deathbed of a young lady at San Gabriel. On his return the horse he was driving became frightened and ran away. After going about fifty yards the buggy was overturned, and Father Peter fell under the wheel. He retained his hold on the reins and the horse was thrown down. The father was so entangled in the buggy top, that had the horse not fallen, he would have been dragged along the ground and undoubtedly lost his life. As it was, he was severely bruised about the body and limbs and his left eye was blackened. It was certainly a miraculous escape, and many people will shudder when they read of the danger to which the beloved Father was exposed.

Tipped Backward.

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday Mr. Potts met with a singular accident while riding on First street, corner of Los Angeles. His buggy top had become loose in some manner, and just as he reached the corner it turned over backward, throwing him into the street. Mr. Potts and his wife and child were leaning against the back, which also gave away, and they were precipitated backward, landing headfirst, without injury, in the top. Officer Fred Smith extricated the lady, but the other two were unable to get out. The horse, which seemed to understand the situation, stopped and stood still until the affair had been concluded.

M. H. Chapman.

Has removed his office from No. 6 Commercial street to rooms 1 and 2, McDonald Block, Main street.

Chicardelli's soluble cones is fresher, stronger and superior to any imported.

Anachetus.

The Gazette says: Backs Bros. have decided upon the erection of a two story brick building on the site of what was now the Mexican saloon on Los Angeles street. The saloon building is owned by George Miller and will be removed to a lot on Los Angeles street, south of the Masonic Hall. The building to be erected by the Messrs. Backs will be an imposing structure, and will add greatly to the appearance of the street. They are to be congratulated on their enterprise.

The Ancient Order of United Rabbit Exterminators met last Saturday morning at Browning's, as announced, and immediately proceeded on a day's hunt for the slaughter of the Southern California farmer's enemy--the jack rabbit. The result of the day's sport was the killing of 113 rabbits and one coyote--another enemy. Mr. Keith killed the largest number of rodents, and several other gentlemen exhibited remarkable skill in waylaying the pests. These rabbit hunts have all been successful thus far, and it is to be hoped that in a few years the jack rabbit will only be allowed to run at large as a curiosity.

LOS ANGELES, March 21, 1887.

Messrs. Lewis Bros.:

GENTLEMEN--With reference to the 22 39-100 acres in the San Rafael Rancho owned and subdivided by E. LEWIS, we think it to be as good land as any to be had around Garvanzo. There are excellent prospects for water at a very short distance down. The land is very good, only 4 or 4½ miles from Los Angeles. It is very prettily situated near Garvanzo, where there is a $30,000 hotel, stores, railway, schoolhouses, etc. The air and water in this neighborhood are delightfully pure, and throughout the summer there is a cool breeze. It is surrounded by Los Angeles, Pasadena, Garvanzo--all of which places are growing with wonderful rapidity. We think there can be no question of its increase in value and we have many inquiries for land in the vicinity. More than 200 acres in lots of 4 acres and upwards have been sold within the last ten months, some having been sold a second time for nearly three times its first selling price.
